Sir,

The Prince of Wales, is to send a Lieutenant a Petty Officer and Thirty or forty Men, on board the Water Transport to deliver her Cargo.

The Officer employed on this Service is to be particularly careful to prevent as much as possible any damage to the Casks or Boats; and he is not to allow any empty Casks to be received on board untill the Vessels Hold is sufficiently empty, for it not to interfere with the delivery of the full ones that remain

The Officer is directed to attend to the wishes of the Master of the Transport as to the mode of working the Hold.

Genl Memo /

Whereas in Consequence of several Men belonging to Transports have lately been discharged from their Vessels in a cruel and oppressive manner from the circumstance of the Masters being now enabled to obtain others at a lower rate of Wages; by which the Men are reduced to a State of misery and want and become burthensome to the Public, I have directed the Agents of Transports within the limits limits of my Station to communicate to the respective Masters of the Vessels under their directions that they are not in future to discharge any Man without a positive permission to that effect from the Senior Officer of His Majesty's Ships and Vessels at the Port where such Transport may be, or from the Agent under whose orders they are acting for the time being, in which case the Senior Officer or Agent is to grant a Certificate stating the reason of such discharge, and the Ship in which the Man is entered or sent for a passage to England and,

I have further directed that no Man is received on board any Transport without a similar Certificate setting forth that they are not deserters from any of His Majesty's Ships, or that they have not distressed any Merchant Ship by leaving her.

The respective Captains and Commanders of His Majesty's Ships and Vessels under my orders are hereby required and directed, in the event of falling in with any Transport having persons on board without such Certificates to impress them for His Majesty's Service, respecting to me from time to time, the names and descriptions of the Men, and of the Vessels they are found on board of.

Sir,

In consequence of some of His Majesty's Sloops under my orders having been delayed in their re-equipment by the neglect of their Commanders in not having a sufficient quantity of Oakum and Small Rope agreable to the Custom of the Service on Foreign Stations.-

It is my direction that whenever a Ship approaches the period when she may want Caulking, a proper quantity of Oakum is prepared for that purpose from the Shakings: and that as much be kept for the supply of other Ships as can conveniently be stowed and the Rope makers and Twine Spinners are to be kept constantly at work in manufactoring Small Cordage and Twine whether the same be wanted for the particular Ship a Vessel or not, as Rope under three Inches will not be supplied from the Dock Yard.-

A return is to be made out every Monday morning of the length, species, and weight of Rope, and quantity of Twine made on board the preceeding week: which is to be transmitted to me by every opportunity: the first to be sent with the Weekly Accounts.-

In the event of falling in with His Majesty's Ship Maeander which is on that Station, You will deliver the accompanying Letter to Captain Bastard of that Ship - in case you do not fall in with her you are to return off the Rock of Lisbon sending into this Port His Majesty's Ship Elizabeth and continue to Cruize together with His Majesty's Ship Calypso off there untill further orders. -

Should you fall in with Captain Jones of His Majesty's Sloop Tuscan who may be expected from 10. 30. to 11. 30. Longitude and in the Latitude of Lisbon, You will direct him to repair off the Rock of Lisbon for further Orders or to this Port in the event of her being in want of water. -

as n

As it is possible you may meet His Majestys Ship Cyanicus, you will deliver to her Captain the enclosed Letter; and as it is rumoured that the Zenobia has been directed by Captain Hoares of His Majestys Ship Liber to go to Figuera, in the event of falling in with her and she has not been able to execute the orders given by him you will likewise take her under your command acting as above mentioned

I have much pleasure of acquainting you that the result of this enquiry is very satisfactory, inasmuch, as I am quite convinced that no blame attaches to yourself your Officers or Ship's Company was indebted to your goodness for procuring the letter from the Post Office the following Wednesday.

I cannot suffer to pass unnoticed the conduct of one of the Centinels to the First Lieutenant and Boatswain who were on Sunday last between 8 and 9 o'clock in the forenoon merely rowing round the Ship in order to square the yards and not further off than the Buoy (the Ship laying with only 40 fathoms of Cable out) had a Musquet presented at them accompanied with some threatening language which must be considered highly improper and by no means requisite

Sir,

A duty I owe to myself and His Majesty's Naval Service requires I should represent to you the apparent want of respect and attention I humbly presume is due to an Officer of my standing, as also those serving under my command by the Gentlemen appointed to regulate the Quarantine department at this Port and the persons employed under them who have shewn a total disregard to the usual and common attention during the period the Aquilon was placed at their disposal. — Their manner of address when they have sometimes come off to the Ship with a letter or to desire a boat to be sent to the Landing place wears much the appearance of Insolence a line of conduct as unnecessary as it is indecorous and which I hope will be remedied. —

But Sir their most palpable inattention has been shewn with regard to my letters and this cannot be more strongly exemplified than in the instance of the one addressed to you on His Majesty's Service — which I sent to the Lazaretto before 11 O'Clock in the forenoon on Saturday the 26th Ultimo. and yet it appears you did not receive it tille late in the afternoon of the following day. — The next relates to a letter addressed to me, but sent Monday the 28th Ultimo to the Pratique by mistake which Sir Charles Burrard immediately forwarded to the Lazaretto apprizing me he had done so, when a Midshipman was instantly sent for it from this Ship but with strict injunctions not to receive it if there was any impropriety in his so doing, I got for answer that it would be sent to me in a quarter of an hour after waiting tille the following day I made enquiry both at the Lazaretto and Pratique Office but without obtaining any satisfactory information and at length

Theraisia going at the time about 4 or 5 Knotts (the Leadsmen having soundings in 10 fathoms at the moment the Ship struck) but scarcely hung a minute. I however lament to say the Ship instantly made water and has continued to do so at the rate of 2½ feet in the hour, Keeping the Hand Pumps constantly at work. –

The following morning we were enabled to ascertain the Sala Keel to be carried away from the Forefoot as far Aft as the Main Mast but the principal injury appeared on the Starboard side low down abreast the Fore Chains and from which we imagine the leak to arise. – In this situation I determined to get underweigh (having Anchored off the Island of Asproniesi soon after the accident) and endeavour to join you at Smyrna & proceed to Malta; the wind however blowing strong at NNW which generally prevails this season of the year afforded me little hope of reaching Smyrna in less then six days, and it appeare evident the Ship must then necessarily be sent to Malta I therefore felt unwilling to delay proceeding to the latter place as the Men were fresh to meet the fatigue of Pumping, and the Pump Gear in good order. – I had an excellent run till after passing the Island of Prigo when the wind came to the Westward presenting every appearance of a long passage. determined me to haul for Corfu Keeping near the shore as in the event of my requiring shelter I might avail myself of the various Harbours along the Coast. –

I anchored at Corfu on the 11th and procured a Transport to accompany the Ship to Malta where I arrived this day –

Sir,

I have to acquaint you that a Squadron of His Majestys Ships as per Margin, left this Port last evening, in quest of the American Squadron that are now at Sea, and as it is possible they may appear off the Coast of Portugal in order to intercept our Convoys, it becomes my duty to apprize you of the circumstance, in order that you may take such steps as in your judgement may be necessary on the occasion.

I beg leave to enclose a Copy of Sir George Collins report to me of the Enemys Ships and

I arrived here on the 5th having been relieved by the Meander on the 29th Ultimo. On the 25th in the morning I fell in with an American Corvett who stood nearly within two miles of the Aguilon before he hauled his wind and on this point of sailing I am of opinion we neared him, which I presume the Enemy discovered he therefore tried us large which gave him the advantage, so much was his superiority over the Aguilon on this point of sailing that by 4 O'Clock in the afternoon he had gone from us at least 5 or 6 miles.

I had the misfortune to carry away the Fore Yard in a heavy Squall on the 27th but with the Stand Mast since my arrival here I have had it made effective.

Sir,

On the 26th instant I fell in with the English Transport Brig Juno (which sailed from Gibraltar under convoy of the Curacoa) in Latitude 38° 25' N and Longitude 10° W. the Officer who boarded this Vessel was informed by Mr James Smith the Master that he had been captured by the American Privateer Portsmouth on the 23d and was given up to him by the Prize Master — and he was then on his way to Lisbon with four of his own Men and the Master of the English Schooner Nancy which was captured the same day with himself, and had only parted Company five or six hours before: I took this Master and made Sail after the Schooner which I recaptured this morning.—

I have since learnt from the Prize Master of the Juno who I found in the Schooner that two of his Men (Americans) were left in the Juno: In consequence I feel it my duty to represent the Conduct of the Master of the Juno, for not reporting to me those two Americans being on board, as I conceive the was in full power of the enemy till they were removed and it was his duty to have demanded that protection which his case as a Vessel captured required, instead of which he considered in the Enemy, and if has been since destroyed, or carried into an Enemy Port that he is responsible for this Vessel which was in the employ of His Majesty's Transport Service. — I beg you will be pleased to represent this transaction to the Commander in Chief.—

I have experienced some very bad weather and had likewise the mortification to witness one of the Enemy's Privateer Schooners getting away from me after a chase of 14 hours, during which time we ran 140 Miles, when I lost sight of the Privateer he had distanced us about 4 or 5 miles, having been nearly within Gun Shot when he was first discovered about 2 O'Clock in the morning on the 1st Instant signifying their Lordships direction to us to report if in our opinion it would not be more advisable to supply the Cruizers occasionally touching at Lisbon, by Contract. -

In return to which we beg leave to acquaint you for the information of their Lordships, that in the present conjuncture we are of opinion that a Contract for a supply of such of His Majestys Ships as may occasionally Anchor in the Tagus, could not be made upon reasonable terms and as the keeping of a Stock of Provisions afloat to the extent proposed would require Transport Tonnage to the Amount of about 625 Tons, which with the contingent expences attached to the receipt and issue of Provisions from those Transports, and the payment of a person to account for them would subject the Crown to an expence of about £800. per Month, exclusively of the deterioration and waste to which the Provisions would be liable from being kept so long in a Ships hold; we beg to submit whether it might not be preferable that the Cursers of the respective Ships occasionally resorting to that Anchorage should be directed to purchase such temporary supplies as they may be in want of; their Captains taking care that the Cursers punctually transmit the regular Vouchers to this Board to substantiate their purchases as soon as they are effected; and in the event of any considerable or extraordinary supply being wanted, we further submit for their Lordships consideration, whether any material objection will arise to the Ships being ordered to Gibraltar to complete their Provisions

Sir,

We have received your letter of the 20th instant, referring us to your former letter of the 2nd instant, in which you informed us that the Officers, Seamen, and Marines of His Majesty's Ship under your command are desirous to subscribe Two days pay, towards the relief of the Widows and Orphans of the Sufferers in the late Shipwrecks and have desired, in order that this proportion of pay may be abated in a regular and proper manner, that you will transmit to this Office a list of the Officers and Men who desire to become subscribers on this occasion; noting on the Head of the list, the purpose for which the pay is subscribed; and we acquaint you it is necessary, that against each persons name should be inserted the amount of his subscription, in money (which a reference to the printed Instructions will easily enable you to do,) and his assent, either by signature or mark and that the last should be attested by the signing Officers of the Ship. - The subscriptions of the Officers are to be charged and abated on the first bills drawn by them, and those of the Petty Officers and Men distinctly charged, as subscriptions for the before mentioned purpose, in all Tickets and said Pay lists, and, also (in any blank volume) in the Pay books of the Ship, which include the period in which the subscriptions are made.

The subscriptions of Marine Officers are not to be included in the list, they not being paid by this Board, nor, by the rules of the Navy can any charges of any nature be placed against them on the Ships Books.

Sir

We have received your Letter of the 8th instant, enclosing a List of Men belonging to His Majesty's Ship under your Command, who are desirous of stopping their Allotments, for the reasons therein set forth.

In Answer We acquaint you that the Collector of the Customs at St Ives, by whom the Allotment of Robt Tocolin is payable, has been informed of what is asserted, and that if the Person who receives the same is his Step Mother she is not entitled to it, and in that case desired him to return it to be cancelled. — Some proof must be adduced of the misconduct of the Wife of Jas McGinnes before his Allotment can be stopped; the Wife of Mich.l Corrigan continues to receive her Allotment at Dublin and it cannot be stopped for the reason given, neither can that to the Wife of Rob.t Lyons, or those to the Mothers of the other Men, but who may relinquish their claims if not in want of subsistence, or that they are willing to comply with the desire of their Sons.

Gentlemen.

As it appears they have not a fit Boat at Chatham for an Admiral, the one sent to Sheerness being in no respect better than the former, is an old boat, and by no means calculated for a Flag Officer.

I have therefore to request you will be pleased to order a thirty two foot Cutter to be built, the sort of boat usually supplied an Admiral, instead of a Barge.

I should not have troubled the Board again, were I not convinced the Boat now furnished would be objected to by any Flag Officer.
